

Ready Pocket I.D. Holder

Many companies issue ID cards to their employees, often including a photograph as well as important identity details. While this helps with security and safety, it is also important that the card is easily visible.

Ready Pocket ID holders serve this purpose, particularly where other methods of displaying identity cards, such as lanyards or clips, may be impractical or even unsafe. The ID holders are sealed directly to the garment, therefore the card is always visible, while remaining securely held in place. The card can be easily removed and reinserted when necessary. Even sealed on the inside of a uniform when used in combination with an RFID card it is a great place to store the identity card without losing it.

Ready Pocket ID holders are designed to display cards based on ISO 7810 standards (size 86 x 54 mm).
